

Message from the General Manager

Welcome to our website– our website is meant to keep you informed of what is going on in the Martin-Deerline world. Communication is a vital factor in any relationship, whether it is with a customer, a staff member or a supplier, and this newsletter is one of the methods that we utilize to communicate with our valuable customers.

The merger of the Martin and Deerline organizations continues to move along. Our two organizations have grown and prospered over the years by building upon three basic tenets – providing superior customer service, hiring and enabling the best staff, and selling quality products and services. These core tenets will continue in the new organization. We believe strongly that this merger will allow us to continue to build upon what we have already created and create an even better customer experience in the long run. Thank you for your patience to date.

From our organization, we wish you all the best in the New Year and may 2010 be your best year yet.
